SPACE SHIPS OF OAHSPE - ETHERIAN TRAVEL:

I am often asked about OAHSPE and have several times put similar inquiries to the Probert Controls. The gist of the answer obtained from them was, that this formidable book was 'dictated by a group of very ancient spirits'-that it contained clues to various magical procedures - and that the descriptions of enormous space-craft or ether-ships were essentially valid and correct, although the information contained was 'too advanced for our present age.' It has a very considerable following (Essenes of Kosmon), and only a first-hand acquaintance with it can justify comment. The following excerpt was sent us by Assoc. H.M. Wagner, of DeFuniak Springs, Fla. (Rt.2):

> The Goddess Arienne slackened the speed of her arrowship to suit that of Hoab's vessel; so onward together they sped in a direct line, propelled as a rocket is propelled, by constant emissions from the hulk; the which expenditure is manu - factured by the crew and commanders, skilled in wielding Jehovih's elements. For as mortals find means to traverse the ocean and to raise a balloon, so do Gods and spirits build and propel mightier vessels thru the firmament, betwixt the stars &over and beyond the sun.
> And when the ethereans highest raised in the most subtle spheres send their ships coursing downward in the denser strata of a corporeal world, their ready workmen take in ballast, and turn the fans and reverse the screws to watch the course and space of travel; for which purpose men learn the trade, having rank & grade according to proficiency; many of them serving a thousand years apprentice-ship, becoming so skilled in wielding the elements and in the knowledge of the degrees of density, that thousands of millions of miles of roadways in heaven are as a well-learned book to them.
> And, thus conversant with Jehovih's wide domains, they are eagerly sought after, especially in emergent cases, or in journeys of millions of years; for well they know the requirements, the places of delight, the dangers of vortices and of eddies and whirlpools, that when a God says: take me hither or yonder, they know the nearest way and the power required. For as Jehovih hath made ice-bergs on the corporeal ocean, dangerous to ships, and heavy currents in the ocean, so there are in the etherean firmament currents and densities which the well-skilled God can take advantage of, be it a slow trip of pleasure, or a swift one on urgent business to suffering angels or mortals.

The idea which seems so fantastic to us in its application to the aeroforms ('saucers), that they are mental constructs from etheric matter, or, again, formed and guided by sound and music - this idea is expressed or implied in hundreds of passages throughout this remarkable book. ml

THE M.K. COMMUNICATORS: (Note: These do not belong to the Inner Circle of the Mark Probert Controls, and we offer a few items for whatever interest they may contain)

"The people on the Moon (excarnate humans) are trying to learn the action of the mental forces (on etheric matter, ether-ships etc). They are for the most part recently departed from earth life and are being instructed by Etherians from various worlds. . . .

"This substance you call Angel Hair is made by us to counteract the radioactive fall-out, as you say; but usually it disintegrates before it reaches earth. It is not spread in the air but in etheric regions for our protection. DO NOT HANDLE IT AT ALL. The greenish stain does not indicate copper. It is important that this substance NOT be handled; it is dangerous. (continued pg 4)

LETTER FROM ROLF TELANO

One of the most interesting and instructive documents the BSR has ever published,is the FLYING SAUCERS by Assoc. Rolf Telano. R.T. is an electrical engineer by profession, and has never publicised or exploited his personal "contacts" with other planes of existence. We print here a few excerpts from a letter written by him some months ago.

. . . . . (1) The bulk of the "Saucers" seen here belong to the Guardian race which has been around this planet, in greater or less numbers,since before the Adamic races evolved. They are identical with Shaver's "Elder Races", the biblical prophets, and the Gods of the ancient peoples. In addition to these, there are frequent visitors from other solar systems, and perhaps other 'planes' , who come here as . sort of "Universe tourists." They visit Earth, and other places, much as our"world tourists" visit the various primitive and exotic lands of Earth.

(2) While the main purpose of the Guardians is to aid the people here to develop, they are great believers in minding their own business. That is; they recognize the right to do as one pleases, so long as he does not seriously endanger or infringe upon the rights of others. Thus, they would definitely not give orders, or make threats, or use undue pressure - under ordinary circumstances. Their technique is more indirect, consisting merely of suggestions.

I qualify the above with the phrase "under ordinary circumstances", because circumstances at present are not ordinary. The atomic bomb has changed the picture. The bomb itself does not pose a serious threat to anyone outside this planet, so comes under the heading of 'none of their business'. However, further developments along the line of nuclear fission might lead to something, which is a very great threat to other worlds and planes, and it is this possible development which has led to great increase of observers, and their particular interest in atomic plants of all sorts. Also, along this line, it is quite possible that they would interfere, forcibly if necessary, in our affairs, in order to prevent a cosmic catastrophe.

(3) From a scientific point of view, the disc people have all of Shaver's "cavern mech" - plus. That is, they have versions several thousands of years later - n o t the museum pieces described by Shaver. They can read the thoughts of any person here, or impress their thoughts on his mind, if desired, and can visually inspect anything. They are not likely to land to contact anyone, for the simple reason that they have no need to do so. They can learn anything they want to know without talking to anyone on this planet - in fact, probably know more about any given subject than anyone here could tell them. Some of the "tourists" might land; in fact, some apparently have landed, for the purpose of inspecting first-hand the curious flora and fauna on this planet. Such landings have to be made at isolated spots, because they have no desire to be torn to pieces by a screaming mob of souvenir hunters.

(4) As for the Guardians themselves, it would help people here if they would regard them not as either gods or demons, but as "just people" - people who are far advanced from themselves, it is true, but essentially human in their reactions. There are wide differences of morals and ethics among them. Care is used in the selection of the ones sent here, but they are not necessarily all good. Like the people here, most of them are a varying mixture of good and bad. They look almost like us - for the reason that their ancestors were also partially ours. The fantastic looking characters are tourists.

"They saw something very peculiar"

"A bit after 10:00 Joe and Lippy again were watching the sky - it was a cloudless evening and the stars were bright - in the Southern skies Mars is riding this time of year, comes out early and is visible before dark. Suddenly they saw something very peculiar and called our attention to it - Mars was faing out. Not like a cloud passing over, but like a light being turned down by a rheostat. Besides, there simply were no clouds, and the rest of the stars remained visible and unchanged. Mars slowly faded until it was invisible, which lasted a few moments; then became visible again, dimly at first, slowly brighter and brighter until again it was at full power. This slow fading and steady returning happened five or six times. Now if it were a cloud (and there were none), why the steadiness and regularity of the phenomenon? And why were not other stars in the vicinity affected?"

The foregoing note comes from our Associate T.L.G. of Oklahoma City. He also gives details of two later observations of the same phenomena, under similar conditions of observation; four witnesses. One of these, Mr. Eddie Clever, of New Cumberland, Pa., wants to know: "Is this a local happening? Have no others seen it? What about the astronomers - have they observed it but are keeping quiet? Is Mars signaling the earth?

Assoc. T.L.G. has no explanation to offer, but says Mr. Clever and others would verify the facts.

LUNA IN THE HEADLINES

"The moon has come into the headlines recently in a big way. New cracks have appeared. Craters have disappeared. Craters have appeared. Craters have changed into diffuse, nebulous, brilliant white spots, not focusable in large telescopes which show neighboring surface features with splendid clarity. Cracks, called "rills", come and go. Mists form within large craters and walled plains. Lights are seen moving within dark parts of the moon. Sometimes an entire large crater, with its central mountain, is lighted with a peculiar and ominous glow. Walls, or cable-like structures, have appeared across craters (reported by Flamarrian in the 19th century) are recent new releases. Dark greenish and brownish shades form within craters and progress with the moving sun, intensifying the mystery of the moon."

'In Mexico there is a group of ten craters similar to the Arizona crater and of just the same size and appearance as the small craters on the moon. These are recorded on films made by the Air Force and are restricted. . . Are they connected with the alleged satellites? ... When a lunar crater appears, has it just been evacuated by a resting craft, half a mile to two miles in diameter. . . When a crater disappears, and astronomers confirm that it has been replaced by some sort of DOME, did something settle into that spot for rest or repairs? When it is replaced by smokelike nebulosity which casts no shadow, is something concealing an activity under a cloud from five to eleven miles across? . . . The moon is something else than a dead and useless world . . . '

M.K. JESSUP, in The Saucerian, Spring 1955 - page 54

The writer of the paragraphs summarized above has a final and very suggestive line: "By pure deduction we may be able to say what Albert K. Bender was prevented from saying"

NOTES: Our latest report, not yet verified, is that the enormous 'bridge' lately seen on the moon, is a METALLIC construction. -- The M.P. Controls have always maintained that the moon was a 'way-station' and had a few permanent inhabitants -- The MK Communicators have lately asserted that there are excarnate humans on the moon, who are learning from etheric instructors how to use mental control of etheric substance. . . . We highly recommend SAUCERIAN; Box 2228 Clarksburg, W. Va. Gray Barker, Ed. Qu., 62 pgs. 35 ¢ per copy.

Question: Are you willing either to confirm or deny the story of the landing of several Discs at Muroc Lake and of their inspection by our technicians? Do you care to say whether President Eisenhower visited these craft?

Ans. Yes, that actually happened and they were inspected by technicians, but President Eisenhower was not there nor does he know anything about it to our knowledge. . . . We wish to retract that statement; he does know and may tell the people. *

(Answers to several questions): It is true that we are not excarnate humans --- No, we are not born nor do we die on this (etheric) plane. But some etheric people do experience what you call death --- In such cases there is a short inter-life between incarnations but this is not the same as in your astral world.

We have read your synopsis of the ethership problem and it is substantially correct, but we are not permitted to discuss it at this time . . . .

- - - - - - - - - - -

* Concerning this Edwards Air Base story; I recently received a courtesy copy of a letter complaining that the writer of it had made exhaustive inquiries in the highest quarters, without finding "a single straw of confirmation" as to Eisenhower's alleged visit; he regretted putting M.L. on the spot, but really thinks I should withdraw, retract, retreat and disclaim. And ML will do something very like that, IF and WHEN the story is demonstrably false. But there has been confirmatory data (not provable) - and the negative result of "top-level inquiries" could have been predicted in advance by almost anybody. The visit by the President would indeed have been "the top news story of all time" - and this very fact insures the most rigid secrecy obtainable. After ten years of highly efficient hush-hush by the Air Force, which actually succeeded in discrediting thousands of witnesses and circumstantial reports, the silencing of a half-dozen V.I.P.'s and a few men in the armed services should be (and has been) a comparatively simple problem. Yes, the BSR Director will eat crow if and when necessary - but so far the bird flies free.

Coincidence - or Fulfillment? On Wednesday, Dec. 8, 1954, an anonymous letter was posted to the London Daily Mirror (postmarked London) - which read in substance as follows:

"A great storm is coming. The wind will be as a cyclone. This is not a joke. There is not much can be done unless you like to advise your readers to take reasonable precautions with windows and doors . . . I cannot at the moment tell you when this will occur - only SOON." . . .

At five o'clock - 105 minutes later, the whirlwind tore across London, tossing people, roofs, cars and trees out of its path. It blew down a house. It wrecked a station.'

The above paragraphs are quoted from a letter, recently received fromour London correspondent, a well-known investigator in psychical research. The MIRROR was able to establish the identity of the informant and our Associate interviewed her. Her warning about the 'great storm', like many similar items, was received clairaudently and without desire or effort on her part. She alleges that many similar warnings have proven true; a very serious one is "pending" and we print this very brief account for the sake of the record.

CONTROVERSY:

The March '55 NEXUS (Tome II, Book 3) is practically nothing else but!

Besides the scintillations of various minor wits there are Desmond Leslie, Dr. Benincasa, Frank Scully (with four pages of interesting slap-downs) and an article of similar length by John Pitt, who gives Leslie and Adamski a work-out and seems to love nobody at all - unless it be J.P ipse. The BSR Director has little taste or talent for such scrimmaging, but as uninvited coat-holder is getting along quite comfortably.

Of course, an occasional badly aimed tomato or something comes our way; I think maybe when John Pitt jeers at the "Psi-Saucer School" he means us. And more than one of the gladiators is distinctly nauseated by any approach which involves metaphysics, or especially psychism. Even the poor Aurabiometer (an instrument used in radiesthesia) gets a kick-around. I don't mean to blame people for being that way, for they are (presumably) as God made them. It's really a waste of time to react at all to ripe tomato tactics.

As the present writer and most of the BSR Associates see it, our organization has just one major objective. Whether Messrs. A, B. & C visited Venus or not, told fibs about it or not, had delusions or not, is outside our primary interests. We think the central issue and problem is the physical condition of our planet; when this is recognized, all the other pieces of the puzzle begin to fit together - including the coming of the aeroforms. We are concerned with objective, factual phenomena - and so far (after nearly ten years) our interpretation of these data seems to be adequate and inclusive.

I say "our", but of course we did not dream up this interpretation ourselves. It came originally (in 1946) from a group of highly intelligent human beings on the "other side of life", and through the deep trance mediumship of Mark Probert - now nationally known. We accept this information (to paraphrase Professor Overstreet) on exactly the same basis as any other pronouncement - that is, its intellectual content, its logic, and its application to the problem in hand. We do not care too much where the information originates, or make any appeal to authority, 'mystical' or otherwise. The question about the "4-D" or "Etheric" concept is purely pragmatic: does it apply? Will it 'work'? Is there any worthwhile alternative explanation?

If any other worthwhile explanation exists, covering the phenomena as a whole, our Associates will be delighted to hear about it. We think 'our' own account makes 'good' science and sound metaphysics; and if the science runs a bit into superphysics, the way out is to try to understand it, rather than to stuff fingers in our ears. What the BSR is trying to do, is simply to make the etheric interpretation accessible and intelligible, to anyone who can be 'critically receptive' toward it. The approach is not religionistic or mystical, we carry on no propaganda (in the usual sense of the word) and certainly make no financial profit.

I have room on this page for a small caveat to Associates. There are, have been and will be many specious instances, pseudo-evidences and hasty inferences drawn from them, especially about the nature of the aeroforms. Transmuted etheric matter may look like our own but have very different qualities. And jumping at conclusions is about all the exercise many people get.

THE C.R.I.F.O. DEBUNKING JOB, in issue of March 4, '55 is about the most thorough and thoroughly devastating onslaught so far effected against the preposterous notion that the UFO's are U.S. secret devices, or else those of some other nation. "That supposition", writes Editor Stringfield, "does NOT lend itself to all the facts, most of which are hidden from public view." The eight closely printed pages are subdivided into: ISSUE 1, SAUCERS OVER KOREA -- ISSUE 2, FLIGHT OF THE MACABRE -- ISSUE 3, SHOWDOWN WITH RUSSIA, and the Fable of the Saucer Super-Weapon -- ISSUE 4, SAUCERS, RUSSIAN SNOOPS, AND SECRECY -- ISSUE 5, THE AIR FORCE SAYS, "We have nothing that spins through the air like a Disc -- ISSUE 6, SAUCER CASES ON OFFICIAL RECORD Belie U.S. Weapon Theory. The whole article is highly quotable, but we cannot resist taking one gem from a Captain in the USAF, written to Editor Stringfield in reply to his inquiries, and included under Issue 5 above:

"We have nothing that spins through the air like a disc, pulsates, glows, de - materializes, changes color, goes from a mid-air standstill to a supersonic speed, or that can turn at square angles in full flight, as some sighters report."

After pointing out that "The Australian Navy Confirms Existence of Saucers", the writer proceeds to name a few among "1001 Other Reasons Why the Saucers are Not U.S. Weapons". The "few" add up to 16, which is plenty without adding 985 more. As a matter of fact, ONE first-class, authenticated observation of the antics of a Disc in full flight should be sufficient to take the event out of all normal categories of explanation - a logical principle often pointed out in the field of psychic research. But human nature being what it is, it would take Antaeus with his hundred arms and hundred clubs to beat an idea into the heads of some of us, once some contrary prejudice had taken root there.

Neither can we resist pointing out, that all these remarkable characteristics listed by the AF Captain suggest at first sight (to some of us, anyhow) that these UFO's are NOT composed of matter as we commonly use the term, nor controlled by any familiar kind of motive power; and it would not be hard to add a book-full of argument to this - though certainly not worth while.

C.R.I.F.O. means Civilian Research, Interplanetary Flying Objects, and its NEWSLETTER, which printed the article referred to, is published at 7017 Britton Ave., Cincinnati 27, Ohio; Len H. Stringfield, Editor. Monthly, $3.00 after April 1st next. Singles, back issues, 25¢. Highly recommended to all Associates - especially this current issue (Vol. I, No.12). (Note: the "issues" mentioned in the first paragraph above are simply subdivisions of the single CRIFO article).

OPERATION CROSSROADS" As more than once in the past, we call attention to an excellent article in New Age Interpreter, Jan.-Feb.-March issue (Vol.16, No.1). Editor Heline sees rays of light in the darkness, and many hopeful signs of world re-ordering, and has the breadth and perspective of thought to make a fair case for the optimist. On the other hand he recognizes that "the four active factors contributing toward stabilization may not be sufficient, and quotes Meher Baba of India, who forsees "three-fourths of the world's population wiped out this coming April" - and also the late Sri Aurobindo, who "expected a serious situation in 1957." An item of interest, too, is the great religious Council (second of its kind in 2000 years) now in session in Rangoon, Burma, with representatives from 17 countries and a hundred different sects.

INTERPRETER is published by NEW AGE PRESS, 1544 Cerro Gordo St.,Los Angeles 26.

THE CASE FOR THE UFO:"

by M.K. JESSUP: Introduction by Frank Edwards

Please order from publishers, not from BSR Hdqrs. Please refer to this review). 240 pages; Citadel Press, 222 Fourth Ave., N.Y.C. 3. April 4, 1955. ($3.50).

(The author of this book is described by the publishers as an explorer and instructor in astronomy and mathematics at the University of Michigan and Drake University, with a doctorate in Astro-physics. He erected and operated the largest refracting telescope in the Southern Hemisphere, in South Africa, for the University of Michigan, and his research resulted in the discoveries of a large number of physical double stars.

It seems certain that our Associates of the Borderland Sciences Research will be among the first to recognize the extreme importance of The Case for the UFO. Altho the thesis of the 'life of space', or 'cosmic life' manifesting as intelligent and individualized entities, belongs to the most ancient philosophy and metaphysics, and has been expounded by many eminent occultists, it is here for the first time openly advanced as a scientific hypothesis and brought into contact withcontemporary phenomena of the most startling order. And if it be alleged that the case is 'not proven', the fact remains that it is logically adequate and that NO alternative explanation exists.

The fact also remains, that for nearly ten years past the BSR publications have been offering an interpretation of the UFO which turns on the same basic concepts as does the thinking of Dr. Jessup. We have gone further into our account of the UFO phenomena than is possible for Dr. Jessup as a scientist and factual investigator, but no major statement offered by us conflicts with his basic ideas, or is incapable of being inferred from them.

We have several times pointed out, within the last few months, that the "4-D" or 'Etheric' interpretation of the aeroforms and related phenomena is steadily though slowly gaining ground. This progress culminates, for the moment, in Dr. Jessup's book, compiled from his independent research, and presenting openly a thesis wholly acceptable to our own point of view. Our Associates are entitled to regard this as a notable success - yet one which redounds to the credit, NOT ofindividuals of our group, but of the well-known Sources from which our data were first derived, in the fall of 1946.

In making use of the considerable number of short quotations which follow, we remind our readers that as these stand, apart from their context, they may appear to be unsupported and dogmatic; but reading of the text will show that this is not the case. And for the special purposes of this review we have of course selected passages bearing on our (BSR) decade-long contentions as to the nature and meaning of the aeroforms. Devotees of Charles Fort will also rejoice in this book - as will those of H.P.B and many another genius outlawed from the Barrens of speculative scientism.

If some of our Associates and readers of Clips & Quotes grow a little impatient with us, for devoting so much space to The Case for the UFO - well, it is our first departure of this kind, and I think the importance of the occasion justifies it. We have long held the same basic thesis as does Dr. Jessup, and his book, within limits, offers a documented interpretation of unprecedented value. ML ("Case for the UFO.). Con. (Quotes and semi-quotes).

Reliable people have been seeing 'flying saucers' for a thousand years and more. . . I see nothing particularly odd in strange descriptions of phenomena the like of which has no earthly counterpart or for which we have no frame of reference. . .' (pg 6)

'There is every reason to believe that Mr. Jessup's approach is the correct one. Many of his conclusions will be difficult if not impossible to refute' (pg.9: Frank Edwards, Introd.).

'No human being with a closed mind need read further (than pg. 16), for he will be asked to think as he has never thought before. . . We must invade a field which has so frightened formal science that it has been omitted from formal cognizance (17).

'If the UFO have been here for 300,000 years and have not yet chosen to launch a mass attack on humanity, it is scarcely likely that they will do it now - unless they are foced to do something by experimenting scientists.(23).

'Are our current troubles but the birth pains of a renaissance. Will we then be welcomed rather than repelled by the intelligences which inhabit the UFO's, or which may even BE the UFO's? (Italics mine. ml) (p. 24)

'If the astronomical profession is to be forced into the position of being the principal witness for the defense in the case of the UFO's, its members will suffer a most peculiar type of embarrassment, for their's is the unenviable position of having been the most dogmatic and derogatory. (p.26)

'The vast amount of material from the past, in all categories, shows clearly that intelligence exists in space. Intelligence is the sine qua non of our analysis . . . We must adjust our ego to the possibility that intelligence exists in space, that it may be and probably is superior to our own, and that it may inhabit physical entities of a discarnate nature such as the nebulous or cloudlike bodies observed by Bernard (27). (Note: "Discarnate nature" does not connote excarnate humans. m.l.)

'Some storms have an artificial aspect, a sort of organic appearance, as of being manufactured for a purpose and to be carrying out that purpose. . . We postulate some percentage of intelligence among storms which suddenly appear in otherwise undis - turbed skies, proceed with a purposeful manner as if concealing something, and discharge peculiar materials . . . (27).

'Failure to consider the sprawling background of the UFO problem is the greatest single factor in the appalling chaos which engulfs this enigma . . . The basic thought id that man is living in a world in which he is neither the completely dominant nor the supremely intellectual being. (28,29).

(In the matter of mysterious disappearances,as of crews of ships) 'no explanation other than that of abduction by intelligently navigated aerial or celestial craft can be advanced. It is almost a case of proof by default. . . With planes there is perhaps some added element other than metal fatigue which involves striking some apparently solid object while in the air, or being rent by unimaginable forces just before falling... Planes seem to hit something . . Perhaps rigidity in a localized volume of air or possibly in space itself. . .' *

(Con.).

* I again remind our readers, thatall these seemingly dogmatic assertions are taken out of context, and are well supported by the book itself, which merits close attention.

(M.L.)

'Many reports have described objects or UFO's as appearing to have been operated by remote control. I believe they are exactly that...(But) there are still a number of luminous spheres and discs which seem to have a more material nature and to contain the intelligences which operate them . . . There is a thread of references to Mother Ships ... the vast thing chased by Mantell and the ten-mile-long thing over Kansas. It seemsprobable these constructions are the domiciles of the smaller-fry Discs, spheres, balls of light . . .(36,37)

'It is my belief that these vast constructions do not come from distant planets, such as Venus, Mars, Jupiter, or the vastly more distant stars, (but that) they are an indigenous part of the earth-moon binary planet system. I make this statement on the basis of hundreds of astronomical observations... Their natural and permanent habitat is at the gravitational neutral of the earth-sun-moon three-body system which is well within the orbit of the moon.
'We can take it as highly probable that there are many zones of convenience around the planets as well as around the sun... which may well be used by enlightened SPACE DWELLERS...
'No final settlement has ever been made of the argument over the opposed wave and corpuscular theories of the propagation of light. An assumption that the ETHER, a necessary adjunct to the wave theory, is identical with the gravitational field (whatever that may be) would reconcile the opposing theories, and a quantum of light would then be merely a pulsation or fluctuation in the gravitational field. (38,39)

(Note: I suggest thatour BSR Associates not only keep in mind the whole concept of the ethers as developed by the M.P. Controls, but also the remarkable cosmological scheme showing the etheric zones of Terra, said by Gerald Light to have been communicated from Etheric entities. ML)

'We are told that the UFO's cannot contain living bodies on account of the stress of acceleration. But any force which would simultaneously accelerate every molecule of either the living body or the mechanical structure would avoid all such stresses. We shall have to stop thinking in terms of jet or rocket propulsion, or reactance with a magnetic field, and instead ascertain how space craft obtain reactance with gravity. . . Atomic power is certainly NOT the answer (40-41).

(Dr. Jessup identifies gravity control with levitation, and believes that the lifting of ancient megalithic structures, found throughout the world, are examples of levitation.'If we were to concentrate on the study of gravity we could have effective space travel within a decade.' He does not, however, raise the problem of space flight over interstellar distances measureable in terms of light years. I believe, however, that he would accept the principle that a change of location for a conscious entity is equivalent to, or accomplished by a change of vibratory rates - best described by the word emergence. And he is certainly receptive to the idea that the great mutant aeroforms are in effect living entities - as truly as the human body is the living and projected earth-form of human awareness.
What, indeed, is meant by the simple expression: I am here? We mean, of course, that we are 'responding' (objectively) to vibratory emanations from objects,which give us the sensations of color, form, pressure, size, weight etc. in a three-dimensional frame. But if this receptivity were altered to respond to other frequencies, our "here" would vanish, to be replaced by some other here-and now. This is a simple experimental datum - but a true example of change of location by emergence. The great mutant life-forms do not "cross" millions of light years of "space - at "speed" far in excess of the velocity of light. (ML)

LIGHTS seem to be especially representative of intelligence . . The hundreds of observations of lights on or near the moon and in other parts of nearby space - lights which seem to exhibit volition and direction - are extremely difficult to explain on any other basis than intelligent activity in space. . . 43.

There is something more of astonishment, however, in finding that astronomical observations include two distinct and divergent types of bodies; the solid, geometrically shaped structures, and the ill-defined nebulous clouds. . .

'It is my contention that the observations of space movements are well explained by the existence of controlled space clouds and space structures, and that nothing else known to man does explain them. . . We are almost certainly going to have to adjust ourselves to a new type of intelligence and "life" (45-46

This war-weary, heart-sick and bedraggled planet is not alone - it is just one cell in a multicellular unit. (50)

'I am fully convinced that huge ice swarms are moving around in space, in orbits like those of meteors . . They are an intrinsic element of space life or space craft, and their very inconsistency indicates intelligence in space. Since they are not consistent with natural laws, there must be direction behind them (64)

'I believe it' (the fall of an endless variety of stuff from the skies) substantiates a space life of some sort. Space is cluttered with a vast amount of debris, sufficient to supply many of the needs of space life. . The least objectionable explanation of these Falls is that they come from intelligently operated space craft, or are in some way guided by the operators of these craft.

I believe the space between the earth and the moon is occupied .. by large navigable constructions of a rigid nature, whose size may range from one to many miles in diameter, and which have a planetary appearance as seen in telescopes. These sometimes come close to the earth... There are also other bodies of a cloudlike nature which cast shadows and may range the entire solar system. All these objects evince evidence of control by intelligence, as do the more recently sighted UFO's. . .

'Smaller 'scouts or operators' areconstantly seen and are of many types, and it does seem that many of them have the ability to change shape.. They seem to be of two types; the solid or material, and the massless or ethereal. All exhibit elements of control, but the weightless ones seem more to have the appearance of remote control. Solid types seem to be discoid or to be spherical or spindle-shaped, and these shapes in themselves are indicative of intelligent construction. (116)

(Readers who do not disdain the 'occult' or esoteric approach will recall the interminable accounts in OAHSPE, of huge etheric craft of planetary size, con - structed by thought-energy, by music and other sound. And the M.P. Controls have declared that such craft exist (tho' craft is hardly the word for them); that they are guided by sound and by mind action, can be made of any size and move at any speed - a statement which implies placement rather than transit - and that weightless construction can be obtained by altering the molecular structure in a way which offers no surface to the gravitational thrust.

Dr. Jessup studiously avoids references of this type, but no one can question his hospitable attitude. I respectfully invite his attention, and that of all his readers, to the recent book entitled THE COMING OF THE GUARDIANS - in which our very intelligent friends on the "other side of life" expound all that Dr. Jessup has said and very much more - though quite without expectation of a receptive audience. (ML).

Under the heading Disappearing Ships and Crews Dr. Jessup hazards the theory of levitation - a phenomenon well known to 'those who know' but quite absurd to most scientists. The author, while not pretending to have 'proof', points out various facts usually overlooked,and again urges what is almost proof by default - i.e., by total lack of any other workable explanation. Under the heading Teleportation or Kidnapping much the same situation develops. I submit, writes Dr. Jessup -

> "that capture by a space contraption for purposes beyond our ken, is the only satisfactory answer". . . 'If the individual who disappears is free to control his own movements in time and space, why does he not return?' (144).

It has long been alleged by the M.P. Controls, and by many other 'occult' sources, that the carrying-off of human beings, animals, and objects by Etheric or Space People has been going on for centuries and millenia - and even that whole communities, groups and races have been removed in this way, to other planets or etheric worlds. The veiled references now being passed about, concerning a possible "evacuation of the planet" may seem less absurd when one thinks of etheric constructions the size of our own globe, or, for that matter, of millions of huge invisible o b jects said to be within the environs of Terra. Such ideas are not new in the world, as Dr. Jessup well knows; it is only that our Western culture knows next to nothing about them - and does not want to know.

The phenomena of Marks & Footprints (153) are said by the author to be "perhaps the most conclusive of all". He re-tells the "Devil's Footprints" story and points out that this incredible series of tracks can be accounted for only "by a mechanical device passing through the air and emitting some sort of ray of heat or energy at regular intervals." This South Devon story is enforced by numerous similar instances, all more or less explicable along the same lines.

Disappearing Planes involves disquieting and perhaps ominous data. The 7-8 pages of this section should be read with close attention.

Fireballs & Lights (7 pages, to 174) closes with the statement: "I submit that all strange lights reported, throughout history and today, are either from UFO's themselves, or reflections of them. They may BE UFO's."

"In all these discussions, one thing seems to be outstanding as a common denominator. All the aerial or spatial contrivances which we have postulated appear to have one feature in common; they have their natural habitat in space, or at very least in the atmosphere. (Everything) leads to the assumption that the UFO's live naturally and easily in space; that they do not necessarily come from other stellar systems, or even from other planets (175) . (italics mine. ml)

Space is not "filled with matter" as we understand the term. Space entities who somehow construct enormous craft travelling at incredible speed do not build them out of iron, copper, steel, brass and other metals as these are known to us. We can surmise, they are made from the etheric prototypes of these earth metals - and these may become true earth-metals by a conversion of their energy rates (mat and demat, to us.) Only a few of these beings, probably, are other-planet people - tho' they may visit thousands of other planets and systems. "Their natural habitat is space" writes Dr. Jessup. And WHAT IS SPACE? Dr. Jessup does not enlighten us, but we can feel sure it is NOT NOTHING. WE think, Space equates with the Ether (or others) - & that this interpretation will hold good in times to come. The wisdom of the M.P. Controls enters slowly but certainly into the days of its acceptation.

VARIA:

Letter to Editor Kullgren, of Beacon Light Herald, from "J.W.", and quoted in Herald of February-March, 1955, page 44:

"Dear Mr. Kullgren: . . . Have you heard of the water-burning inventors, Daughtery and Jackson, of Salt Lake City, who demonstrated for Senator Watkins, Utah, and his staff in February, 1951? While in Washington, D.C., they were offered $3½ million but they refused the offer as they want homes to be heated with the water-burner. As the inventor's picture was noticed in a local paper, wrote Senator Langer for more information. He wrote no written report was made. But sent me full address of the inventors.

"In September, 1951, had someone call on inventors Jackson and Daughtery. They said fifteen scientists of the University of Utah contacted them and wrote formulas all across the blackboard showing them water just would not burn. One of the inventors said, 'Thank God, I'm not a scientist but water burns'. They told scientists they would burn a pint of oil with water and get 800 B.T.U.'s more heat than the scientists would burning a pint of oil alone. When the water-burner is set perfectly no chimney is even necessary. They had demonstrated for the press for six hours, and at the close asked a woman for her handkerchief, wiped out the water-burner and returned the handerchief, white as they got it.

"Towns using water-burners would be sootless. Some eastern industrial plants are using the water-burner. They are working on the water-burner to perfect it for home use. The water-burner could be used throughout the world to improve living conditions. The inventors say this is only the beginning of much more than can be found from the water-burning idea.

- Yours truly, J.W."

The San Diego Herald, under date of March 25 (1955), prints the following. Authentic, but for some reason not yet in the press generally.

"Sea Water Conversion Ready.-U.S. Reports Water at $4.08 ft. - Gerald Dougherty, Editor and Publisher of the San Diego Herald. On behalf of our readers, the latest authentic information relative to the United States Government's sea water conversion program was requested by the San Diego Herald a few weeks ago.

"Official progress reports were received from the Dept, of The Interior this week, revealing that the conversion process has been declared a highly successful project in the public interest.

"This means that Sea Water Conversion is no longer in the experimental stage. It is a reality! It is here today and ready for public use!

"The most startling fact in this report is an announcement by the United States Government that a $1,700,000 conversion plant can now produce 75 million gallons of fresh water daily, converted from salt water at the amazing cost of only $4.08 per acre foot!

"This is in comparison to the rate we are now paying the Metropolitan Water District (of Los Angeles) of $50 per acre foot for Colorado River water delivered here through two aqueduct pipe lines. . ."

Just to show that we CAN print something useful, practical, and intelligible, we quote substance of an article appearing in the Los Angeles Times of February 13, '55, entitled

CONDENSING DEVICE MAY YIELD WATER: "The apparatus is strikingly simple. It consists of a black sheet of metal reinforced underneath by fiber board insulation. This unit was propped up on stilts and placed in a slanting position. At the base was a small bucket. No motors or moving parts. The tests were conducted at night.

The metal surface was painted black merely to heighten its condensation powers. The insulation was to protect the metal from heat escaping from the ground. The moisture-laden air with a temperature of about 60 deg. F. passed over the metal, ... which had a temperature of 40 - 50deg. The condensation produced water droplets which collected in the bucket. "

All this, of course, is fifth-grade stuff; the alleged results, however, are more surprising. "During preliminary tests", say the inventors "a very rough estimate is, that in one evening we collected about 1/25 of a gallon of water per square foot of metal surface. Speaking theoretically only, we think that for each 25,000 sq. ft. area of metal an estimated 1000 gallons of water could be collected during an eight-hour period" (i.e., metal sheeting about 130 x 200 ft. would collect about 1000 gallons of water every night, where the mean ratio of moisture is about 7.3 grams per kilogram of air in the test area). Results are best in spring, summer and fall.

This apparatus was set up at the 750 ft. level, in the foothills near Menlo Park, Calif., by two Stanford Research Institute scientists, Dr. Robert Eustis, and retired Navy Captain Howard B. Hutchinson. Dr. Eustis stated that from present indications one could conceivably envisage large metal installations all along the coast, much the same as reservoirs and dams, and individual farmers could put up smaller units for their own needs.

The two inventors have asked the Institute for a $10,000 grant to continue research.

AUFKLARUNG:

An Associate writes us, that a very distinguished astronomer, Head of the Howard College Observatory, recently remarked in a letter to him - "You and I could breathe on the Moon. " This will be distressing to most scientists, but maybe a great relief to scientifiction writers-'n-readers, who have been carrying oxygen tanks on Luna for a generation past.

MR ANON Frees His Mind: "The more I read of Venus Speaks, the more convinced I am that it is either a fast-buck hoax (and the crudest on record), or that the author was not in touch with any 'scientist from Venus', but with some lower level astral entity who gave him the material tongue-in-cheek. The science or most of it . . . is so puerile that it is almost entertaining. Add to this the fact that this "chief scientist" peppers his anthill-shaking message with pious quotes from the bible - & you've got something! "

NOTE: The foregoing is not ye Editor in disguise. Indignation builds up, sometimes, in brain and nerve of our Associates. Apoplexy, or publicity - which? We have feared, threatened, and promised these many moons to print sometimes some of the milder verbiage of this sturm und drang saucer-age. It's risky, but Why should Assoc. ANON and his confreres suffer indefinitely in silence? Why should he - they - not suffer audibly, when the pain gets worse and worst? We'll try anything once - or oftener - or should we?.
